

Busy Office Environment

Measurements were taken on consecutive days (one per day) in a commercial insurance office. The office spanned 1,500 square feet and was populated with 15 people. The test was run in the summer when the office windows were open.

Each measurement was taken in two separate locations within the office. The control measurements were taken prior to the AD being installed in the office. Subsequent measurements were taken in the office in which a single AD unit was running continuously
